CHAPTER 12 HRRVC Beaver Meadows Campout Java, New York

Its been raining all morning and I am finding it hard to get motivated to load up the coach and head over to the campground. We are camping nearby at the Beaver Meadows campground so it is only about 20 minutes to get over there. It has been raining off and on all morning so I am hoping for a break in the weather to be able to head on over there.

I took advantage of a break in the rain just after 11am. I loaded our stuff into the coach just as it started to rain again. Then I fired up the engine and headed to the campground. I had a whole 11 miles to go. When I got there the Parkhill's had already arrived but the office was closed. So we pulled into the gravel sites at the top of the upper camping area. Soon after that the Betz's and Smith's pulled in and set up. About an hour later the office opened and we all walked up to register. Norm and Pat pulled in just as we were finishing check in.

We all finished setting up and finished our lunches. Turns out we could stay on the sites we picked. Five rigs in all attended.

Time for happy hour and we headed over to the clubhouse, for some snacks and time to catch up on what everyone had been doing all winter. Bonnie got out of work on time and came in just as it began to rain hard again. A while later we decided to head out for a fish fry and headed to Bryncliff for their salad bar and fish-fry. Afterward we drove by the Lodge at the animal park so everyone could see where it was. Then back to the campground. It was raining hard when we got back so plans to play cards were changed and everyone decided to stay in for the night.

Saturday

Lots of wind and rain during the night, not cold but cool. Still windy and cool this morning. We had a very good breakfast casserole and everyone had plenty to eat.

After breakfast the yard sale folks were off for the Strykersville Yard Sale, the whole town has a sale at once. They took two cars, 4 woman and 1 guy. Three of us stayed here and one couple had a memorial to attend. I took a few pictures and walked up to the office to look around and try their WiFi. It turned out to be very slow.

While the weather is not great it is nice to be here and relax.

The shoppers returned with their treasures, some earlier than others. Those of us that stayed behind were all rested and relaxed.

We met again for happy hour. The day was breezy but once the sun came out it felt really nice outside.

Dinner was great. Pork tenderloin, potato salad, macaroni salad, 3 bean salad, cole slaw, and croissants were served.

Desserts abounded. There were pies, dessert pizza, and brownies. I think everyone came away more than full. The Jae's daughter Liz and grand daughter Alexis joined us for dinner.

A group gathered later for a couple games of nickel nickel and we had a good time playing that. About 9:30 everyone headed for their rigs.

The rain started again during the night and continued. It poured during breakfast and some were a bit late hoping it would stop. Well the rain did stop just before we finished breakfast and so we were able to walk back to the rigs without the rain. Most decided to break camp while there was no rain and head for home.

Of course the rain started again when it was time to dump and during the drive home.

Another successful campout even though it rained it did not dampen our spirits.
